It Has Been an Honor: A Word from President Gerald Brooks

It seems this year has flown by and my term as your president will soon come to an end. I would like to take this opportunity to say a few things about my presidency.

I cannot begin to express what a privilege it has been to serve as your president. At conference, I thanked my dream team, which includes many of you. I use the term “dream team” because never in my wildest dreams did I think that I would one day be elected to lead the charge for all libraries across this state. It is one of the highest privileges that I have ever received, and I am grateful and humble. I have learned a great deal, and I am extremely pleased with what we have accomplished.

Each year we are faced with a new challenge. This year it was the governor’s budget cuts. Our valiant efforts this year in this regard – advocacy and awareness – continue to expand, as they must in today’s political and economic climate. Our job, however, is not finished, and it won’t be until the monies that are so desperately needed by libraries are released. If you are interested in learning more about how you can contribute, I urge you to contact a member of the board or Legislative Committee.

Your association accomplished a number of important goals this year, including:

- Increasing both individual and organizational membership
- Finalizing all paperwork for the 2015 joint annual conference with the Kansas Library Association
- Collaborating with the new secretary of state to work toward common goals for the betterment of all libraries
- Continuing to build and expand the MLA’s handbook, our association’s terrific guiding document
- Being more inclusive of the board’s members-at-large by giving them more responsibility

I extend my congratulations to all the newly elected members of the executive board. I am very excited about the selections made by the membership. There are some incredibly talented and dynamic board members coming in to take the helm. And without a doubt we will be in very good hands with our 2015 president Christina Prucha.

Thank you to my fellow board members for your engaged and far-sighted leadership. I lost count of how many e-mails we have exchanged this year. It has been a lot, and I am extremely proud of the way everyone came together to address MLA issues and goals as a true collective. It has been a collaborative process – and an enjoyable one at that. I am most grateful to Christina for her support and encouragement all year, and I look forward to being part of MLA under her leadership.

I want to thank Carol Smith, who always took my calls when I needed her advice. I hope I can be as helpful to Christina as Carol has been to me.

Others I would like to thank include our talented association management service and their representatives, Tracy Byerly, Keith Gaertner and Linda Elkow. Also, our amazing 2014 conference coordinators Lauren Williams and Angela Scott and their army of assistants who made the event such a great success.

Most importantly, I want to thank every Missouri Library Association member. You are the reason for our existence. We as board and committee members are here to serve you and the libraries you represent and serve across the state. Thank you for being a member and thank you for the hard work you do year-round for your communities.

I am proud to be a part of this member-driven association and to have served you to the best of my ability. Thank you for giving me this opportunity of a lifetime. I look forward to continuing that service next year as a member of the Legislative Committee. It Has Been an Honor.

Sincerely,
Gerald S. Brooks

2014 MLA Conference Wrap-up

Here’s what we learned at the 2014 MLA Conference: You all play a mean ukulele. There ain’t no dance party like a librarian dance party. Everything is better with more cowbell. And most importantly, Missouri libraries are thriving and innovative! From strategies for community engagement and ideas for creative programming, to developing e-book platforms and redesigning digital branches, your colleagues and coworkers are responding to rapid change in inspiring ways. We hope all who attended came away with ideas that can be explored and implemented at their organizations. We thank all of the presenters, volunteers, vendors, performers and attendees who made this year’s conference such a success. And thank you to the MLA Board for trusting us with this task. We had an amazing time serving as conference coordinators.

MLA By the Numbers
Our final number of registered attendees for this year’s conference was 372. Fifty-four vendors exhibited at the trade show. Fifty-six volunteers and a 23-member conference arrangements committee made sure the 88 sessions and events ran smoothly. We are so amazed by what a volunteer-run organization can accomplish!

Evaluations!
Help next year’s conference coordinators make this annual event even better, and share your ideas for 2015’s joint conference with KLA. Fill out an overall conference evaluation and then the breakout sessions evaluation, one time for each session you attended.

Overall conference evaluation: http://goo.gl/KdhKyt

Breakout sessions evaluation: http://goo.gl/eYZ0yS

A Final Thanks
We couldn’t have done this without our “Team Awesome,” this year’s Conference Arrangements Committee. We want to sincerely thank these volunteers for their planning, organization and mad trouble-shooting skills. We learned so much from each of you during this process and were honored to work with each of you.

Updates On the Upcoming MLA and KLA Conference

Another great conference is in the books! Lauren and Angela, along with their army of volunteers, put together a wonderful conference experience for everyone involved. If you were in attendance, you were present at one of the best (if not the best) events throughout the year to meet other librarians, gather ideas, and see how our state association works! Next year, our annual conference moves to Kansas City, where we will join with the Kansas Library Association to produce a conference to be remembered!

Come join us September 30 through October 2, 2015 at the beautiful Kansas City Convention Center for Libraries Without Borders! This is the first joint conference between Kansas and Missouri since 1961, and we are working to ensure this will be a great experience for conference newcomers and veterans alike. It will be a rare opportunity to experience the national breadth of sessions and ideas, but on a local scale. If you are an LIS student, there is no better time to join MLA and/or KLA. Shoot, if you are or know someone working in a library, there’s no better time to join. Reap the benefits of being part of a huge network of library professionals!

We will see you in Kansas City!

Missouri Digital Newspaper Project Adds Over 350,000 Pages, Prepares for Statewide Bookmark Blitz

The State Historical Society of Missouri (SHSMO) is gearing up to get the word out. Libraries in St. Louis and each of the 71 counties that are home to these historic newspapers have received care packages containing posters and bookmarks to promote the Missouri Digital Newspaper Project and Chronicling America as resources for library patrons. The materials feature newspaper headlines from influential moments in American history. If you would like to request bookmarks and posters for your area, contact SHSMO at shsfo@umsystem.edu or 573.882.7083 for details. Shipping charges may apply.

About the Missouri Digital Newspaper Project and Chronicling America

The Missouri Digital Newspaper Project was created to coordinate the digitization of historic Missouri newspapers. The goal is to provide a free, searchable database of newspapers from every county. Papers currently accessible on SHSMO’s website (http://shs.umsystem.edu/newspaper/mdnp) have been digitized with support from the Institute of Museum and Library Services under the provisions of the Library Services and Technology Act as administered by the Missouri State Library. Many of Missouri’s digital newspapers are also available through the Library of Congress’s Chronicling America site (http://chroniclingamerica.loc.gov).

Storytime at Adult Daycare Centers

Libraries are always looking for ways to get out into their communities to serve patrons. We accidentally happened on a new service opportunity. While canvassing daycare centers to find those interested in having our children’s programmer present storytime sessions at their locations, we called Rainbow Activity Center in Union. The name led us to believe that it is a daycare center for children. The director of Rainbow was excited about our call and very interested in having us visit to provide programs for her clients – who are developmentally disabled adults. For two years now, we have taken the same books we use for children’s storytime to two adult daycare centers in Union and the clients love our visits. For more information about this program, people may contact Lauren Young at lyoung@scenicregional.org.

Missouri Evergreen Update

Missouri Evergreen continues to work on its catalog improvement project, define best practices and workflows as well as conduct strategic and financial planning for the future of the consortium. The consortium will upgrade to Evergreen version 2.7 on October 28, which will add some new features and fix some bugs in the system. Implementation of the Acquisitions module of Evergreen for interested libraries is also underway, for a January 2015 start date. Schuyler County Library has begun cataloging in the Missouri Evergreen database, as part of their automation process, and will be set to go live once they are finished.

The consortium now contains 1,362,687 items, 941,931 bibs, and 223,002 patrons. Member libraries borrow and lend materials within the consortium using the already-existing courier delivery service and patrons can place holds on materials from member libraries in the same way they can from their local systems. The Missouri Evergreen website, http://libraries.missourievergreen.org, contains more information about the consortium, including member libraries and borrowing/lending statistics.

The mission of Missouri Evergreen is to provide a shared integrated library system to increase resource sharing among Missouri public libraries. Administered by MOBIUS, it is supported by the Institute of Museum and Library Services under the provision of the Library Services and Technology Act as administered by the Missouri State Library, a division of the Office of the Secretary of State.

Access Services Community of Interest

The Access Services Community of Interest (ASCI) sponsored nine breakout sessions during the 2014 MLA conference. Among these sessions was The Future of Access Services Lightning Talks. The talks included “Mobius-Expanded” by Katherine Bohnenkamper of Drury University, “Media Vending Solutions for Branch Libraries” by Samantha Hellman of Springfield-Greene County Public Library, “Free and Easy: Taking Your Employee Manuals Online” by Ellie Kohler of Rockhurst University, and “Shifting Math” by Joshua Lambert of Missouri State. Joshua Lambert, Chair, and June DeWeese, member Emeritus, talked with several people during the Meet and Greet about the CI. The annual business meeting was productive and many exciting ideas for topics for next year were discussed. Ellie Kohler, Rockhurst, was elected Recorder for 2015.

Remember ASCI is open to anyone who works in Access Services, which many include Circulation, Interlibrary Loan, and Reserves, to name a few. You only need to mark your membership renewal form indicating interest to join ASCI.

Amigos online conference “Discovery Tools Now and in the Future” features outstanding sessions, new non-member pricing

Don’t miss the Amigos November 18 online conference, “Discovery Tools Now and in the Future.” The schedule features a number of interesting and informative sessions. Three concurrent sessions are offered throughout the day.

Public and academic libraries will be interested in Marshall Breeding’s “The Advancement of Discovery through Openness and Interoperability,” while Eddy Smith’s session, “Implementing Discovery in a Consortium,” will interest library consortiums. Academic libraries should check out Ken Varnum’s session, “Library Discovery: From Ponds to Oceans to Streams.”

As always, Amigos members can attend free of charge as a benefit of membership. We’re also happy to announce new, lower pricing for our online conferences. An individual non-member can attend for $89.99, while a group can register for $149.99.

See the conference website for session descriptions and registration.

Amigos to host fellowship program online informational session

The Amigos Fellowship and Opportunity Award Program supports library innovation, development, and research. Through a competitive selection process, up to $10,000 is available annually to Amigos member libraries and their staff. Funding may be requested for projects that will advance the services of the library or promote the growth and development of individuals or teams.

Join Amigos staff online on November 11, 2014, at 10:30 a.m. CST to learn about the award program, hear how you or your library can apply for funding, and find out what projects may qualify. Also, get tips on writing a successful proposal and ask questions about the process.

This one-hour session is open exclusively to Amigos members and is free of charge.

Download the Guidelines for Application and start the application process now by submitting your intent to apply. You will then receive a username and password to access the full application packet. Final applications are due March 15, 2015.

For more information, contact Pamila Carter, opportunity@amigos.org, or call 800-843-8482, ext. 2883.

The 417 Librarians: Changing Faces, Going Places

The 417 Librarians have continued meeting, eating, and networking online while the faces of some of our leaders have been changing. First, Heather Cottle-Dillon (Springfield-Greene County Library) took on other responsibilities and was succeeded by Miranda Stringer (Springfield-Greene County Library). Then Rebecca Clarke (formerly of Springfield-Greene County Library and now at St. Louis County Library) accepted a new job out of the area. Chelsea Estes Shoemake (Marshfield R-1 Schools) was able to step in and help lead briefly, and now she has been succeeded by Sara Stubbins (semi-retired school librarian). Andrea Miller (Missouri State University) has continued to help lead throughout these changes.

This year, a joint dinner with the local Student Library Science Association was enjoyed at the stunningly beautiful Café Cusco, which boasts jaw-dropping woodwork and delicious Peruvian cuisine.

After an Italian dinner at Bambino’s, we returned to the Springfield Art Museum for a docent-led tour of the Watercolor USA exhibition, which featured its first 3-D piece. Missouri State University offered a behind-the-scenes tour of its Special Collections and Archives. Among many treasures related to the Ozarks and MSU, we saw the oldest book in the library (1502), as well as The Historie of Foure-Footed Beastes, which has inspired a Facebook page. A 1930 yearbook picturing first graders at MSU’s laboratory school using saws while working on a school project showed how much times have changed. We also viewed an exhibit of Mesoamerican and Native American art which was the product of a collaborative effort between Special Collections and an art history professor.

Later we went out on our first dinner and a movie, The Fault in Our Stars, in a quest to “research” the perennial question—which was better: the book or the movie?

Fall is in the air, and so are ears of corn thanks to the corn cannons at Rutledge-Wilson Farm Park’s Fall Fest. We toured the farm’s barnyard and pumpkin patch.

We also hosted a gathering for all the statewide Librarians Who Lunch groups at the Missouri Library Association’s Conference.

We hope you can join us online on the 417 Librarians Facebook page, which now has over 245 followers, or at our future events, which will be posted to the MLA, SWRASL, and SISLT listservs, and a private email group (email mirandas@thelibrary.org to join).

MU Libraries Updates

MU Librarians Author Chapters in New Library Instruction Book
Shelly McDavid, a library information assistant a the Veterinary Medical Library, and Rebecca Graves, the educational services librarian for the Health Sciences Library, co-authored two chapters, "Introduction to Learning Theory" and "Introduction to Instructional Techniques," which appear in Curriculum-Based Library Instruction: From cultivating faculty relationships to assessment (Medical Library Association Book Series), 2014. The book has just been released and was co-edited by Amy Blevins, a graduate of the MU School of Information Science and Learning Technologies.

MU to Open Census Bureau Research Data Center in Ellis Library
The University of Missouri has received approval from the National Science Foundation (NSF) to become a satellite location for the new Research Data Center (RDC) to be located in Kansas City, Mo. Now, researchers from MU and around the Midwest will be able to access millions of files of census bureau data for research projects ranging from public health issues to economics. Hank Foley, senior vice chancellor for research and graduate studies at MU, says this new center will further position MU as a leading research institution in the region.

The University of Missouri has dedicated $1 million from the general operating budget: to finance the new facility, which will be located in Ellis Library on the MU campus; fund the salary of a census bureau employee to operate the RDC; create small grants for faculty to receive federal approval to use the RDC; fund several doctoral fellowships to train students in using the database; and begin a seminar series promoting the types of research in which the RDC is capable of assisting. The primary RDC, located in Kansas City, is funded by the Kauffman Foundation. While the MU RDC is technically a satellite center, it will allow the same access to census bureau data as the primary RDC in Kansas City. Chris Wikle, a professor of statistics at MU, says the new RDC will be a valuable resource for all kinds of research.

The date in which the MU RDC will be opened has not yet been named, but Heflin believes it should be operational within the next year.

Traveling Exhibition Tells the Story of Abraham Lincoln’s Struggle to Meet the Constitutional Challenges of the Civil War
“Lincoln: The Constitution and the Civil War,” a traveling exhibition that opened at the MU Law Library on September 18, 2014 examines how President Lincoln used the Constitution to confront three intertwined crises of the Civil War—the secession of Southern states, slavery and wartime civil liberties. The MU Libraries and the MU Law Libraries are co-hosting the exposition.

Lincoln is widely acknowledged as one of America’s greatest presidents, but his historical reputation is contested. Was he a calculating politician willing to accommodate slavery, or a principled leader justly celebrated as the Great Emancipator? This exhibition provides no easy answers. Rather, it encourages visitors to form a nuanced view of Lincoln by engaging them with Lincoln’s struggle to reconcile his policy preferences with basic American ideals of liberty and equality. This exhibition develops a more complete understanding of Abraham Lincoln as president and the Civil War as the nation’s gravest constitutional crisis.

Abraham Lincoln was elected President of the United States in 1860, at a time when the nation was on the brink of war. Lincoln struggled to resolve the basic questions that divided Americans at the most perilous moment in the nation’s history: Was the United States truly one nation, or was it a confederacy of sovereign and separate states? How could a country founded on the belief that “all men are created equal” tolerate slavery? In a national crisis, would civil liberties be secure? President Lincoln used the Constitution to confront these three crises of war, ultimately reinventing the Constitution and the promise of American life.

“We are delighted to have been selected as a site for this exhibition,” said Jim Cogswell, Director of Libraries. The Director of MU’s Law Library, Randy Diamond is equally pleased with the opportunity to co-host this exposition. “As a new president, Abraham Lincoln was faced with enormous challenges. This exhibition shows how Lincoln struggled with issues of secession, slavery and civil liberties—all questions our country’s founding charter left unanswered. Each section of the exhibit features information about a different aspect of Lincoln’s presidency. For example, the section about slavery examines the various policy options Lincoln once embraced and how his thoughts about slavery evolved over time. Most importantly, the exhibit helps visitors understand why Lincoln’s struggle with the Constitution still matters today.”

Staff and Patrons Mug for Free To Read Fest

The Springfield-Greene County Library celebrated Banned Books Week with a Free To Read Fest September 23-27. Creative banned books displays at various branches were so enticing that librarians had trouble restocking the book displays. Staff members and patrons took Get Caught Reading mugshots and posted them on the District’s Facebook page. The final event at the Library Center, A Banned Performance, featured theater students from Ozarks Technical Community College performing selections from banned and challenged writings under the direction of OTC theatre instructor Jon Herbert. Jon led discussions about the issues of censorship and freedom of information during performances.

Teens Enjoy Pulling the Plug on Electronics – For a Day

Thirty-two teens participated in the We’re Pulling the Plug! teen program on September 25 at the Midtown Carnegie Branch Library. Instead of pitching a fit that they couldn’t play Xbox or get on the computers, several kids asked to play Mafia, a progressive story game, and enjoyed an unplugged day of play in the library.

NASA Astronaut Visits Springfield via Skype

NASA astronaut Col. Michael Hopkins made space science alluring as he talked via Skype to about 35 children and adults at the Library Center auditorium on October 3. It kicked off the Library District’s World Space Week series, which included a space-themed geocache adventure in Springfield. Hopkins’ Skype visit was recorded and uploaded to the Library’s YouTube account at youtu.be/h2FQgVb5LkI. As Library Center Reference Librarian Tammy Flippen asked questions provided by staff and the audience, Hopkins discussed his long journey from astronaut training to his 166-day flight and experiments aboard the International Space Station.

Tattoo Art a Hit with Younger Crowd
A Park Central Branch program “View the Art of Tattoos” on October 3 struck a chord with younger audiences. It featured a Q&A session with the artists from Kaleidoscope Tattoo parlor, and later 52 young adults and adults made their own temporary tattoos.

Abraham Lincoln Actor Draws Living History Lovers
Actor and scholar Fritz Klein, in the character of President Abraham Lincoln, held an audience of nearly 200 people spellbound during a presentation October 14 at the Springfield Art Museum. “State of the Union: October 14, 1864” featured Lincoln’s analysis of the war and his personal sentiments about the lives lost and the war’s turn of events in 1864. His visit was part of a series, “Campaigns & Politics: The Civil War in 1864,” offered on October 8-27, and featured scholarly talks by Civil War historians.

Springfield Awaits Author/Illustrator Jan Brett’s Dec. 5 Visit
Beloved author/illustrator Jan Brett, of “The Mitten” and “Hedgie” fame, will include the Library Center in her 23-city fall tour on December 5. Brett plans a talk and a drawing demonstration at 5:00 p.m., and at 5:20pm will sell and sign several of her popular children’s books including her newest release, “The Animals’ Santa.” The Library also plans giveaways, drawings, and children’s activities during the event, which is open to all ages.

MU’s PuLL Fellows Attend MLA Conference
Who were those lively and intelligent people you saw at the MLA Conference? The first cohort of the Public Library Leadership Fellows!

MU professors Denice Adkins and Jenny Bossaller received a $347,488 grant from the Institute of Museum and Library Studies (IMLS) to begin a new program focused on public library leadership. The primary goal of the MU-SISLT Public Library Leadership Fellows (PuLL) Program is to educate the next generation of public library leaders in Missouri through class work, mentorship and networking.

Classes focus on issues such as working with library boards, legal and financial elements of public libraries, diversity, human resources, and community relations.

Cohort 1, admitted in the fall, is currently taking two classes: Leadership for Diversity in Public Libraries and Public Library Administration and Management. In the spring, they will take Community Leadership, a service-learning course, and will complete a practicum in one of our partner libraries, shadowing and working with experienced public library administrators and mentors. The partner libraries are Daniel Boone Regional Library, Kansas City Public Library, Mid-Continent Public Library, Springfield-Greene Public Library, St. Charles City-County Library, and St. Louis County Library.

Students are funded to attend the MLA and American Library Association Annual meetings during their cohort year. We asked the students what they had learned so far this year. Haley Anthes, from Columbia, said, “I’ve learned that marketing is a lot more involved than making and hanging posters, and that it is more important to public libraries than most people would think.” Cody Croan, from Kansas City, responded, “I’ve learned how library administrators, especially directors, must have a broad vision of their organization with highly concentrated intentionality in their actions.” Ashley Runyon, from St. Charles, said that she as “learned that the diversity of an organization is not just based on the race of its employees but rather the multitude of facets that make up each employee as individual.” The other fellows are Amanda Barnhardt (Kansas City), Kathryn Brockmeier (Lincoln, Nebraska), Jill Frasher and Taira Meadowcroft from Columbia, and Claire Presley Marks from St. Louis.

Following three cohorts, SISLT plans to open up the classes to the broader state audience, either through continuing education or as a certificate program. For more information, see http://libraryleaders.missouri.edu/index.html. For more information on IMLS, please visit http://www.imls.gov/.

Traveling Exhibition Tells the Story of Abraham Lincoln’s Struggle to Meet the Constitutional Challenges of the Civil War

The National Constitution Center and the American Library Association Public Programs Office organized the traveling exhibition, which was made possible by a major grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH): great ideas brought to life. The traveling exhibition is based on an exhibition of the same name developed by the National Constitution Center.

The traveling exhibition is composed of informative panels featuring photographic reproductions of original documents, including a draft of Lincoln’s first inaugural speech, the Emancipation Proclamation and the Thirteenth Amendment.

The libraries are sponsoring free programs and other events for the public in connection with the exhibition. “Lincoln: The Constitution and the Civil War” was on display at the law library until October 31, 2014.

Saint Louis Regional Library Network Tech Expo 2015 Call for Proposals (Due December 8, 2014)

Purser Center, Logan University
Chesterfield, MO
February 25, 2015

What digital learning technologies, tools, strategies, techniques or philosophies are you using in your library? What changes have you made in your library to engage users in learning new technologies? Would you like feedback about new projects or programs that your library has implemented? How are you helping people who use your library to adapt to the changing nature of the information landscape?

The Saint Louis Regional Library Network is seeking proposals that answer these questions and more. No matter what type of library you work in, presenting a Tech Expo session allows you to share and learn about effective tools and techniques. More importantly, conducting presentations, sharing new strategies and exchanging ideas opens the door for librarians & staff to discuss what we do best in our libraries. Put this network to use and submit a proposal for the 2015 Tech Expo.

Possible topics include:
Banned Books/Censorship
Children’s Programming
E-readers & Tablets
Gaming
Google/Google Scholar
Learning Management Systems
LibAnalytics
LibGuides & LibAnswers
Library Advocacy
Low budget solutions
Marketing/PR
Mobile Technology
Online Teaching
People with Disabilities
Privacy
Public Safety/Disaster Preparedness
Special Collections
Virtual Reference

Presenters receive complimentary registration to the Tech Expo.

Download the proposal form at http://www.slrln.org. Complete and submit by December 8, 2014 to slrln@amigos.org or fax it to 314-529-1396.

SISLT Welcomes Bennett Magnino, New Internet Administrator for Project Whistlestop

We are pleased to announce that Bennett Magnino has joined SISLT as the Internet Administrator for Project Whistlestop, the digital library for the Truman Presidential Library. Bennett resides in the Allen Institute at MU, his responsibilities include website and database management for the Harry S. Truman Library and Museum.

Bennett holds an MLIS from the University of Iowa and a BA in English from Grinnell College, and he has work experience in public, academic and school libraries. In his personal time, he enjoys cooking and writing short fiction.

LIS Professor Chris LeBeau Shares her Experience on UCUR Radio Program “Meet The Teachers of Some Unusual Classes at UMKC’s Communiversity”

LeBeau’s segment is titled: “So You Want To Be A Librarian?”

The business librarian at UMKC, Chris LeBeau, uses her personal experience to help others find their inner librarian. LeBeau describes what it means to be a guardian of these “little cities” of knowledge.

“A lot of people come to us, sometimes refugees from the classroom,” LeBeau said. “They’ve been teaching, and they want to get out of the classroom and they want to stay in education.”

Communiversity runs from September 22 until December 13. Click here to listen to the interview
